SENSIBLE MARRIED FOLKS

AND THE ONLY M'NICHOL.

This summer outing is a thing

Which rises like a geyser's head;

The subject comes up every spring

And makes life welcome as a bed;

Where shall they go—our daughters, wives,

To spend as much as others do;

To make a burden of their lives—

And find extraneous joys?

Away, away to mountain-lake!

No sea-shore, valley, hill and play;

While we toil on—no pleasures take

And live discontentedly here;

Deserted chambers dim and dark,

No light nor life—no stir nor sound;

Exhausted quite the vital part—

No wives nor little folks around.

You may depend I dreaded this

When rose the mercury to the top;

Then wife, she met me with a kiss

And next—'till that I should drop;

'Till, dear, we've hoarded long enough,

I've traveled over the coasted foam;

I've had it soft, you've had it rough,

Boredom of comfort, while you can;

'Till, when, when, when, when, when,

McNichol in the friend I'll seek;

You've heard of his tall tales, I hear;

How hopes are made, dear, by the week;

No foolish flight to Eastern clime

Need to make me strong again;

I think I'll stay with you this time,

And in my little empire reign.

Ward! Tom's happy man to hear this! With returned arms he worked and gave his weary limbs to this helpmate, who made him a bright and cheerful home at small cost, with the help of a grand refrigerator for which brings Arctic breezes.

You will say, "Why did I not do this before?" You can not have in a better way.

Marked "Anna" and Other Property

Found Near the Corpse—Latest Details of the Terrible Tragedy.

As Fred Sheachke, living at 434 Garland avenue, and David Stone, residing on Garfield avenue, two lamp-lighters, were walking along Union avenue about 8 o'clock this morning, returning home after extinguishing the lamps, they suddenly came upon a woman lying on the west side of the road about 300 feet north of Park avenue. She was lying perfectly still and the swollen, discolored appearance of her face made her look as though she might be in a drunken slumber. Her dress was ripped open and the skirt torn, and on a closer inspection the lamp-lighters beheld blood on her. They examined her and found she was dead. Dawn had just broken and there was not another human being in sight. The young men came to the conclusion that the woman had been murdered and they hastened to the Cote d'Albion station and notified the police. A mounted officer was immediately dispatched and examined the woman's corpse. Her clothes were distinged with blood, and she was a gold-headed umbrella with the name Anna engraved on the top and a small handkerchief out of which a pocket handkerchief was protruding.

HER DRESS

was torn at the waist, as described, and exposed a portion of her white undergarment. The woman's torso was the color of the way, and it looked as if some one had first attempted to assault her and afterwards murdered her.

For her swollen and discolored face indicated that she had met a violent death. She had evidently bled internally, as the dark crimson fluid was coming out of her nose, ears and mouth. The right wrist of the neck was swollen and blue, there was a mark on the right jawbone and a slight mark over the right eye. Her entire face was swollen and blue, and her lower lip was twice its normal size. As though she had been struck in the mouth by a man's clenched fist, the body was

THE MARKS OF A BLOOD WOUND which seemed to indicate that she had been

LEGITIME'S LAST GASP.

THE SITUATION IN HAYTI AS REPORTED BY REFUGEES.

The Steamship Firm Wilhelm Arrives With Merchants From Port-au-Prince—Everything Stagnant and the Haytian Capital Overrun With Refugees—Hippolyte Before the Seizure of the City.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

New York, June 27.—The first authentic news from Hayti came yesterday. In spite of the protestations and denials of the party of Legitimism in this city it looks as though the party of the South was in its last gasp.

The steamship firm Wilhelm, which left Port-au-Prince June 26, arrived yesterday and brought with it twenty-five positive proofs of the desolation of Legitimism's fortunes, in the shape of refugees from that city, merchants who say that it is only a question of time when Hippolyte's army will drive Legitimism out of the city.

In addition to the merchants, there came Gen. Herford, military governor of Port-au-Prince; Stephen Preston, son of Mr. Preston; Legitimism's agent in New York, Mr. Robert, and a number of other Legitimists.

There returned also Capt. Fisher, Kempton, Kason and Hunt; Engineers Nelson, Monahan, Graef and Kuller, who went several months ago to help Legitimism.

Most of them were very young. Young Preston is a student at the University of Chicago and a fine red uniformed officer in his efforts.

The Haytian merchants were far from cheerful. Among them were M. Dubouche, J. T. Brown and family, Henry Roberts, an English merchant, M. D. Dumont, L. J. Saurin and R. P. Level.

They all told the same story. The reason they left Port-au-Prince was that affairs in Hayti have reached such a point that business is out of the question; everything is stagnant, and the rate of exchange is higher in the north, which is significant of the altered condition of affairs, for hitherto it has been much higher in the north.

There is almost no money in the north. There is no way to get hold of a little rapidly leaving Port-au-Prince. The rate of exchange is high. Flour is selling for $30 a barrel, and the poorer classes are suffering for the necessities of life.

On the verge of insurrection.

In the hills behind Port-au-Prince the armies of Legitimism are in a state of siege. Every few days a detachment of Legitimists is sent to the hills to fight the forces of the proximity of their foes.

The firm Wilhelm remained at Port-au-Prince with all his staff and told the officers of the ship that he was prosperous and would soon be victorious. He said that he had a large stock of goods and was waiting for the day when he could go ashore when there was a sound of the firing of the city.

The reason for Hippolyte's sudden march to the north was explained by the refugees. They say that he only went as far as Cape Haytien and picked up arms and ammunition. He is now in the city of the South in the rear.

"What is the city?" one of the merchants was asked.

"He is waiting for the inhabitants to do that for him," was the answer.

SULLIVAN'S ACCOUNTS.

THE CRONIN GRAND-JURY TAKES A NEW TACK IN THE CASE.

Removal of Sensational Arrests to Be Made Soon—A Report That Somebody Has Squealed—Armed Men at Chillicothe Supposed to Be on Cooney's Trail—Camp No. 20.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 27.—The Grand-jury took a new tack in the Cronin case this morning and once more started in to look up Alexander Sullivan's speculations.

Sullivan's speculations. Alexander Sullivan and Dupee were subpoenaed to bring their books into the Grand-jury room for inspection.

It is believed that in this way light will be thrown upon features of Alexander Sullivan's speculations.

The actions of the police indicate that some arrests are about to be made. Some one is reported to have "squealed"—the police refuse to say who, and neither Sullivan nor Dupee will say who got some of the conspirators high and dry.

Detective Palmer says John F. Beggs was arrested to prevent his holding communication with the outside world. It is claimed that Beggs had been visiting members of the alleged committee and it was thought that he had put a flea into the ear of more than one of the committee.

It is reported that the Grand-jury have found two indictments, and they will be laid before the court this afternoon. The names of the persons against whom they have been drawn are not known.

Camp No. 20. Camp No. 20, Edward Spelman, District Delegate for the Klan in the State, was interviewed last night in reference to the disbanding of Camp No. 20 of Chicago, states positively that the camp was not disbanded, and that it is still in existence.

It is further stated that it would not be true if the State's Attorney calls upon him for the records of the camp. Camp No. 20 has no connection with the Cronin affair. The dead man was a member of Camp No. 20 for over five years.

The idea that the camp was disbanded is an error. A member of one camp could not be tried by the council of another one. There is nothing in the records of Camp No. 20, which we are not willing for the world to see.

THE SISTER REPUBLIC.

GROWTH OF AMERICAN COMMERCE AND INFLUENCE IN MEXICO.

A Member of the American Legation Tells the Results of His Observations—Hated of the Americans Rapidly Disappearing—President Diaz, Senator Hearst and Minister Bragg—A Great Improvement.

AST night Lewis J. Gibbons of Milwaukee, who has been for the last three years a resident of Zacatecas and the City of Mexico, and who was for some time connected with the American Legation, arrived in the city, and is visiting friends.

When I first went to Mexico, said Mr. Gibbons, "there was the strongest feeling against Americans, especially along the Rio Grande border, and in the country west of the Valley of Mexico. In the valley, and the district tributary to the Rio Grande, there were a number of Americans, and among them the northern frontier and among the western coast and central mountains we were hated with an intensity which it would be difficult to exaggerate."

AMERICAN RUSSIAN IN MEXICO. "The representatives of the United States who looked themselves to Mexico cannot by any means be held blameless of the existence of this feeling. The congregation of blackguards along the Rio Grande, and still more in Northern Sonora, would be hard to equal anywhere. Of the United States for Mexico on perfectly legitimate grounds, but a very large proportion of our contribution to the population of the sister-republic consisted of men who have made their own country too hot to live in, and would have been a most undesirable element in the earth-wards of the most depraved city on earth. I am an intense admirer of my fellow countrymen, but after my experience in Mexico, I must admit that the American ruffian is about the worst element in the world."

He, however, has also been a warm friend of the United States, and secured the passage of very severe laws against all crimes against the railroad company. Anyone caught in the act of stealing could be shot on sight, and anyone convicted of robbing a train was liable to be hanged. Over one hundred men have suffered for this cause, and before this law was adopted the property of the railroad company had been entirely destroyed. "Within the last eighteen months there has been an immense change for the better. The ruffian has been driven out of the country, and the country is now a safe place for Americans. The country is now a safe place for Americans. The country is now a safe place for Americans."

NEW YORK.
Arrangements have been made for a base ball tour which is of interest, if only for two things. The players are members of university nine of Harvard and Yale, and they are going to England to teach the game. It is a part of America's national game. The striking feature of the plan is that the proposition came from England, and this seems to indicate that Englishmen have taken up the game. Not the least important part of the affair is the fact that all the expenses of the team are to be paid by a number of Englishmen who have become deeply interested in the game, and that $20 a week is to be allowed to each man to meet his personal expenses. This is a very much of "professionalism," in spite of the fact that the sum is delicately called an "allowance" and not a salary, that the secret has been most carefully guarded, and it has been intended that no one except those immediately concerned with the trip should know anything about it until the team had sailed for England.

The object of the trip, as explained to a reporter by a member of the Harvard nine, is purely an instructive one. The team will be expected to give exhibitions of college base ball to various English schools and universities and teach Englishmen the finer points of the game, that they may play it themselves. After some preliminary instruction the American nine will be divided into two mixed nines will be formed, these playing against each other. Passes for the team has been engaged on the Umbria for July 6, and the trip will last during the summer. The college athletes will not play ball in any places not in England. One of those going on the trip, when asked about the subject, expressed surprise that the secret had leaked out. "We do not feel," he said, "that our action in the matter is at all questionable, but we decided that it was best to keep the secret as long as possible as misunderstandings are likely to be caused by the disclosure of the trip. We are going to England to teach the game, and while the state-rooms have been engaged for weeks. We hoped to steal away undetected. All members of the Varsity nine of Harvard, Princeton and Yale were asked to make the trip, and it is presumed that all of them will go. The trip is a very important one for the American athletes, and the reporter's informant declared that he did not consider the "allowance" to be a salary, and that there was nothing like "professionalism" about the trip. He said that any contracts had been entered into he laughed and said that such a thing was hardly conceivable.

The Harvard man who will make the trip is ex-Capt. Hennah, Capt. Willard and Deacon. The Yale men are Noyes, Rogers, Poole, Graves and Calhoun.

The Columbus-Brooklyn Trouble.
Columbus finished their series at Brooklyn yesterday, but President Byrne of the Broogate receipts for the series. Byrne telegraphed Association headquarters that he intended to withhold the gate receipts until the Columbus Club had paid him $1,000 for refusing to play on Monday. He

St. Louis, Mr. S. F. Neely, of Lawrence, Kan., who has been and still is a large purchaser here, said this morning that the only fault to be found was with buyers residing in St. Louis. Among outside purchasers there was a strong faith in the future of the city, and particularly in the western and southwestern suburbs. When they came to buy they were disposed to place a reasonable value on the property to be sold, though, of course, they wanted to buy as low as possible. The reverse was the case with St. Louis purchasers. Though they are getting over the habit, they still almost universally deem investments unless they can be had at very low prices, and in doing so they are doing themselves a great deal of harm.
It is worth in almost every case where they have an opportunity.
